

Support Portal | Registry Services

Knowledgebase > Routines > Deregistration of domains > How is a deregistration request handled when the company declares bankruptcy?

How is a deregistration request handled when the company declares bankruptcy?

Agent - 2022-07-07 - Deregistration of domains

The registrar must have routines to ensure that the person who requests the deregistration is entitled to do so. For a company in bankruptcy, the Trustee normally has this right, and the contact persons that were specified probably no longer have the right to act on behalf of the company.

As a rule, the Trustee must always be contacted in matters concerning companies that have declared bankruptcy.